Layton set to meet with local NDPers

POLITICS Members of Nova Scotia's newly elected New Democratic government will rub shoulders with federal NDP Leader Jack Layton this week.

Layton is expected to arrive in Halifax today to meet with Premier Darrell Dexter and tour some of the province's ridings before attending the federal NDP convention this Friday at the World Trade and Convention Centre in the downtown core.

Ridings Layton plans to see leading up to this weekend's convention include Chester-St Margaret's and Lunenburg, a news release said yesterday.

"I am thrilled that New Democrats from coast to coast will be gathering in Nova Scotia next week," Layton said in the release. "This is a beautiful province with wonderful people and each of these communities has a story we need to hear."

Sidney, Cup storm Halifax

PHILIP CROUCHER
philip.croucher@metronews.ca

STANLEY The Cup has left town, but it's left behind countless memories — both for Sidney Crosby and the thousands who came out to see both him and Lord Stanley's mug.

Crosby's 48-hour journey with the Stanley Cup took place Friday and Saturday, with Day 1 a public celebration and Day 2 a private affair.

Crosby's time with the Cup on Saturday reportedly included him taking it to specific people who have played a big part in his life. Then, Saturday night, the plan was for him to take the Cup to his parents' home for a barbecue with his family.

Tens of thousands came out to see Crosby and the Cup on Friday, including an estimated 65,000 for an afternoon parade through his hometown of Cole Harbour. The Cup arrived in the Halifax Regional Municipality on Friday at about 9 a.m. when Crosby flew in on a Sea King Helicopter and landed on HM-CS Preserver at the Halifax dockyard.

"It was just bigger and better than I ever could've dreamed," Crosby told reporters Friday. "Seeing all the signs and everything (in the crowd), you can't really measure that as far as how much it means to you."

Cops suspect arson

Fire trucks called out to same building twice on weekend

KRISTEN LIPSCOMBE
kristen.lipscombe@metronews.ca

Emergency crews were called to the same Dartmouth apartment building for the second time in three days early yesterday morning to deal with what appears to be arson.

And they're not thrilled about it.

John MacNeill, acting platoon chief for Halifax Regional Fire and Emergency Service, said three trucks and 14 firefighters responded to the complex at 25 Highfield Park Dr.

just after 2 a.m., to find someone had apparently sparked a blaze in a garbage can, which spread to the nearby wall.

No one was hurt, and there was little damage done to the building itself despite the "heavy black smoke" that billowed from the laundry room through the third floor hallway, MacNeill said.

But someone easily could have been hurt, he said, adding firefighters could have missed out on a more serious call. "It ties them up when (they) could be doing something else."

"It's dangerous," he said.

"Anything could go wrong."

Paramedics and police officers also responded to yesterday's suspicious fire, helping evacuate residents who were ripped from their sleep.

Sgt. Gordon Graham of Halifax Regional Police said yesterday a second small fire had started in the building's south stairwell, but it went out on its own.

"Someone was just holding a match or a lighter to the wall," he said.

MacNeill said the investigation was handed over to police so they can pinpoint the person or people responsible.

sponsible.

Emergency personnel also ended up at that apartment last Thursday, at about 1:50 a.m.

"It was pretty much the same thing," Graham said. "Flyers in a garbage can were set on fire," this time in the second floor laundry room. A tenant was able to grab a fire extinguisher and knock the blaze down, police said.

MacNeill said he would "venture a guess" the assailants are the same in both cases, but added "it could be copy cats, it could be kids, it could be tenants — who knows."

Sexual abuse victims settle with diocese

$13 million in compensation agreed upon; bishop formally apologizes for suffering

PAUL MCLEOD
paul.mcleod@metronews.ca

Victims of sexual abuse and a Nova Scotian Roman Catholic Diocese announced they've reached a $13-million settlement Friday.

The settlement is designed to compensate the victims of sexual abuse by Catholic priests while allowing the Roman Catholic Diocese of Antigonish to avoid bankruptcy.

Ronald Martin, who said his abuse started at the age of 13, started the class-action lawsuit. In 2002, Martin's brother took his own life and in a suicide note revealed he too had been sexually assaulted as a child.

"When I found out about that suicide note and what had happened, I made a promise to him that his death would not be in vain," Martin said.

"That's been a promise that was very, very difficult to keep. Many times in the last seven years it would have been very easy to walk away."

"But now, today, I feel like I fulfilled that promise."

Martin and his lawyer, John McKiggan, are encouraging others who suffered abuse to contact them and make a claim. So far they've already heard from two-dozen people.

More info

- The agreement must still be approved by a judge. It covers cases dating back to 1950. Those wishing to make a claim can find more information at dioceseclassaction.com.

Four former priests in the diocese were convicted of assault, though the real number is alleged to be higher.

McKiggan praised the Antigonish diocese Friday for working with victims.

"There have been Catholic Church priest-abuse scandals we're all aware of ... In my experience the strategy ... that the church has followed in the vast majority of these claims is to fight the survivors vigorously," McKiggan said.

"This is an extraordinary resolution of claims against the church that is unprecedented in Canada and, I think, in North America."

On behalf of the diocese, Bishop Raymond Lahey formally apologized to victims, saying no amount of money could undo the damage that was done.

"I want to express to you in a personal way my most sincere regrets for the abuse that you and other members of your family have suffered."

Sun a welcome sight for Shakespeare festival

Lying on their backs on a yellow blanket in the afternoon sunshine at Point Pleasant Park yesterday, Caitlin Stewart, Cadence Allen and Mary Fay Coady warmed their voices up before Jack and the Beanstalk. All three women performed in Shakespeare By the Sea's version of the classic story under sunny skies.

"One by one and two by two and three by three," they chanted, all the way up to 15 in a single breath. It's a breathing exercise that helps them prepare for the play.

"Shakespeare By the Sea is definitely a weather-oriented company," Stewart said once she'd finished the exercise. The company relies on sunny weather to entice theatre fans down to the park.

Although this week has seen blue skies for the most part, rain has put a damper on the festival overall this summer. When there's rain in the forecast, the show moves inside.

"It's been terrible," Coady said.

Man dies while taking swim in Kearney Lake

INVESTIGATION A man believed to be about 50 years old died Friday evening while swimming in Kearney Lake.

Halifax Regional Police said a woman visiting the beach spotted the man entering the water, but she became worried when "she did not see him come out of the water for an extended time."

Police said officers found the man's body "several feet from shore" at about 7:20 p.m. Members of Halifax Regional Fire and Emergency Service showed up with a fire boat and retrieved the deceased man from between 10 and 15 feet of water.

A medical examiner also arrived on scene and an autopsy was to be conducted, police said, adding that will determine whether the death was due to drowning.

Cole Harbour goes 'Cup crazy'

65,000 pack parade route to catch a glimpse of Sid the Kid and Stanley's mug

philip.croucher@metronews.ca

It was a day Sidney Crosby won't soon forget.

Neither will the tens of thousands who came out to see the Cole Harbour superstar and hockey's Holy Grail.

With perfect weather and a revved up hockey community looking to catch a glimpse of Sid the Kid and the Stanley Cup, a crowd of about 65,000 came out to an afternoon parade Friday to see Crosby with hockey's top prize.

This, on top of the thousands who in the morning saw the Pittsburgh Penguins captain land with the Cup via a Sea King helicopter on HMCS Preserver at the Halifax dockyard.

"We got a few people that are Cup crazy here today, it looks like," Crosby told the crowd at Cole Harbour Place, which packed the venue's parking lot following a parade that began at the MetroLink terminal on Portland Street.

"Thank you very much," the almost overwhelmed superstar said. "This is incredible."

Crosby stood next to the Cup on an antique fire truck for the one-hour parade, waving to his admiring fans that stood 10-people deep in some spots. Afterwards, Crosby brought the Cup onto a large stage and spoke for about five minutes, where he thanked all the people who helped get him to where he is today.

He then had a special message for the young hockey players in the crowd.

"They're seeing the Stanley Cup up close, and I'm sure all of you dream of winning it yourself," he said. "I just want you to know I did the same thing and the proof is right here that you can do it. So, go for it."

While he spoke to the crowd, Crosby was serenaded with chants of Happy Birthday several times. Crosby celebrated with the Cup on his birthday — he turned 22 on Friday — something he wouldn't mind doing again in the years to come.

"I'd love to be able to say this is something that is going to happen every year. I really hope it happens again soon ... sooner rather than later," he proclaimed to loud cheers.

youngster yelled to his father as Crosby made his way into the parking lot at Cole Harbour Place with Lord Stanley's mug next to him.

It seemed like every second person in the crowd of thousands was wearing something Crosby related — whether it was a T-shirt, hat or a No. 87 jersey.

Some, like 16-year-old Ryan Wilson of Oxford, took things a step further. He, along with his friend, was draped in a Nova Scotia flag and has his face painted with the Penguin team colours.

"It was great," Wilson said of seeing the "king of hockey" with the Cup.

The Oxford Regional High School student also left impressed with Crosby's speech to the crowd as the Pittsburgh Penguins captain paid tribute to all who helped make his Cup dream possible.

Celebration a full-on family affair for Crosby clan

philip.croucher@metronews.ca

SID For every special moment in Sidney Crosby's life, his parents, Troy and Trina, were there to see it. Friday was no different.

"I don't think there are any words to describe this," Trina said, shortly after watching her son be honoured by thousands of fans who followed him from the parade route to the stage set up in the parking lot at Cole Harbour Place. "This is just incredible."

When Crosby and the Pittsburgh Penguins won the Stanley Cup in June, the TV cameras went to Troy and Trina several times for their reactions from their seats in the arena. And while that was undoubtedly a very special moment for the Cole Harbour parents, watching their son bring the Cup home ranks up there, too. "It's a proud moment for the family," Troy said.

Both of Crosby's grandmothers also took part in the parade — and did so by "riding in a corvette along the route," Sidney said.

In his speech to the crowd following the parade, Crosby singled-out his family, including his parents and younger sister Taylor, for all that they've done for him over the years.

"What can I say, my family has been incredible," he said. "Thanks very much Mom and Dad, Taylor, everybody. This is what it's about. Thanks for helping me get to my dream."

Crosby decided to bring the Cup to Cole Harbour on his 22nd birthday. Trina admitted this celebration would be hard to top.

"They've said I had good parties, but this is really something else," she said. "It's just wonderful."

While dogs might have the cognitive ability of a toddler, Coren says their social consciousness is as high as an adolescent.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper sits down today with President Barack Obama and Mexico's leader for a meeting that will test the value to Canada of the North American summit process.

Today's "three amigos" discussion is the centre-piece of the fifth summit since 2005, when then-U.S. president George W. The closed-door chats give the leaders a chance to share their thinking, but whether this setting can produce results for

Obama's focus

- At today's meeting, U.S. President Barack Obama is focusing on issues of immense joint concern to Mexico and the United States: Border security, drug trafficking and immigration.

Canada seems unclear.

The most urgent issue for Canada is the recent rise of U.S. protectionism.

Barring Canadian suppliers from bidding on federally funded urban renewal projects in the U.S. is resulting in lost jobs in Canada. And the problem is getting worse as U.S. cities and states gear up to award more contracts on projects paid for out of Obama's $787-billion US stimulus package. But for Canada, nothing concrete is expected from Obama on this problem until Harper visits Washington, D.C., on Sept. 16.

Premiers urge U.S. governors to reject protectionism

TRADE Urging more free trade with the United States, Canada's premiers are appealing to their American counterparts to reject protectionist policies.

At the close of the three-day Council of the Federation meeting in Regina, the provincial and territorial leaders vowed to help Ottawa achieve "a broad reciprocal procurement liberalization agreement with the U.S." The premiers' declaration is significant because it comes as Prime Minister Stephen Harper prepares to meet U.S. President Barack Obama in Mexico.

Harper is seeking amendments to the Buy American provisions that effectively outlaw Canadian firms from bidding on projects funded by Washington's $787-billion US stimulus package.

"We're going to have to make this case neighbour to neighbour, company to company, worker to worker, governor to premier, prime minister to president," said Manitoba Premier Gary Doer on Friday.

Ontario Premier Dalton McGuinty said while the short-term goal is an exemption from the punitive Buy American provisions, the longer-term hope is for "freer trade."

"Provinces and states are going to have to sign on, through our national governments, to a trade agreement that enables us to provide the certainty that just as our business will have access to their procurement policies ... they will do so in turn," said McGuinty.

To help their case, the premiers plan to send a delegation to the February meeting of the National Governors Association in Washington.

EU seal ban seen as threat

SEALING Hundreds of villages in Atlantic Canada that depend on seal hunting for much of their livelihood are already feeling a sharp economic pinch from a European ban on seal products that went into effect last month.

For more than 20 years Eldred Woodford has taken part in the annual seal "harvest" on the ice floes along the coast of Newfoundland and Labrador, home to more than 80 per cent of the country's sealing industry.

But the hunt now brings in much less money than it did only a few years ago, he says. In April Woodford and his crew killed about 1,200 harp seals over 10 days in an annual hunt that usually accounts for about a third of his yearly income. But depressed prices for pelts mean this year's catch will sell for thousands of dollars less than in the past.

"When you talk about an income between $30,000 and $35,000 a year and you lose a potential income on sealing of $8,000 to $10,000, that's a substantial loss," said Woodford. REUTERS

Revolving door of love

HineSight

Anne Hines

metronews.ca/hinesight

Last time, this column was about my friend Rob's new romance. After it ran, a concerned reader sent this tweet:

"Yr column shows a complete lack of faith in yr friend's ability to find true happiness, based on nothing but his entire dating history. Don't u believe in love?"

I was shocked. I had no idea Rob Twittered.

I do believe in love. What I believe is that it falls into two categories — the kind that's guaranteed to last forever and "not so much." The second type may look like this:

1. Puppy Love: This may be defined as any romance involving two people who think the fact that they have the same music on their iPod means they'll "like totally, totally be together forever." Usually, this is limited to the younger than 15-year-old set. I recall my daughter, Becky, then 14, and I having this conversation:

Becky: I'm so upset. Jeremy and I broke up.

Me: (practised at suppressing comments like "Whoohoo!" or "Who's Jeremy?" Oh?)

Becky:

Now Devon's

asked me out. I said I'm just not ready.

Me:

You need time to heal ...

maybe

until you're 40

SunnySide

Becky: I said maybe next weekend.

The reason older, more mature people don't engage in the revolving door romance of youth is obvious. We can't remember that many new names.

2. Beach Vacation Fever.

When the weather's hot, romance sizzles. Scientists claim it's about smell;

we can detect

the scent of desire on each other. But not through a parka.

Vacation romance, however,

is like a sombrero. It's exotic, it's colourful, you have to have it, but bring it home and you'll have no idea what to do with it.

3. Relationships based entirely on looks. No good can come of this. We all know it. We all plan to avoid it. Right after we've dated a personal trainer.

4. Dating the wrong person. This is the relationship that's destined to be mad, passionate and blessedly short-lived. Everybody knows it. Except, of course, the two people involved. It's the kind of romance that leaves you thinking either, "Gosh, that was fun." Or "What the heck was I thinking?" Or both.

We all hope to find a love that lasts. In the meantime, the good thing about a "not forever" love is that it's ... well, not forever. Which means there's only one way to handle it. Enjoy it entirely.

Worth mentioning

Remember ladies, keep your chin up, skirt down

Misbehaving celebrities and the recession have pushed more people to improve their etiquette in a bid to gain an edge over job rivals and inspired lifestyle books such as How to be a Heppburn in a Hilton World.

Author Jordan Christy said she wrote the guide to "the art of living with style, class and grace" after celebrities such as Paris Hilton, actress Lindsay Lohan and singer Britney Spears made headlines for all the wrong reasons.

Hilton is infamous for a lewd sex tape that became an Internet hit. Lohan has long been gossip fodder due to her public drunkenness, and Spears was splashed across tabloids partying without underwear.

"For too long this 'stupid girl' behaviour has been burning the daily headlines and I really think there's a lot of people out there who wanted to see a return to our feminine values," said the 24-year-old Nashville, Tenn.-based writer. Christy's book has chapters on Keep Your Chin Up and Your Skirt Down, Dress to Impress, and Let Him Come Calling.

Take responsibility for your own wellness

UrbanScrawl

Christina Biluk

metronews.ca/urbanscrawl

East (and West) Coasters are notoriously envied for their approach to work-life balance and relaxed pace of life.

While we may spend less time at the office than our colleagues in central Canada, we East Coasters are straggling behind in measurements of our overall health and wellness, which impacts the wellness of our community.

Wellness is often associated with being physically active, however, it involves much more than being fit. Wellness encompasses environmental, material and financial, occupational, intellectual, emotional, spiritual, social and cultural aspects as well. By improving our own individual wellness, we can influence family wellness and in turn improve our community wellness.

We all need to take responsibility for our own wellness. What it boils down to is making choices. Poor choices over time result in illness — this is the way our body tells us to pay attention to it, while good choices result in vibrant health.

The better in control you are of your lifestyle, the better you can control your health. Despite what you might believe, good choices don't take any more time than poor choices.

So start small; adapt one new healthy choice each week. By slowly introducing healthy choices into your life, you'll find it easier to stick with them.

Need some ideas to start?

Drink more water. You need to consume your weight in kilograms multiplied by 0.033 to determine the number of litres per day you should consume. Keep in mind that coffee, juice and pop don't count toward this goal.

Learn to let go of the things you can't control. From traffic jams to tension with your family or co-workers, hanging on to these stressors can alter your hormones and lead to trouble down the road.

Get at least seven hours of sleep a night. You need this time to let your mind and body to rest and rebuild.

Another good choice is to simply take a moment to focus on your breath each day. This allows you to free your mind of everything else while you focus on breathing. Want to learn how? FUSION Halifax is offering you an opportunity during its second annual outdoor yoga event. On Aug. 20 at noon, on the wharf at the base of Purdy's Office Tower II, take a break from work, breathe and practise yoga.

5 things to do today to be green

TIPS Being green can be easier than you think.

1. Remove cellphone, iPod and laptop chargers from the wall when not charging. Chargers keep drawing electricity even if the device isn't charging.

2. There are environmentally responsible choices instead of bottled water such as the world's first carbon negative bottled water, Fiji Water. Recycle your empty bottles.

3. Use a compost bin to turn food waste into fertilizer for the garden.

4. Place recyclable shopping bags in car, desk and purse so there is no excuse to use plastic.

5. Repair leaky faucets. A dripping tap can waste 800 litres a month.

Mother Nature not frail old lady

EarthTones

Sophia Dore & Andrew Laursen

metronews.ca/earthtones

We talk a lot in this column about protecting the environment, about treading lightly on the Earth. This sometimes promotes a view of Mother Nature as a delicate, frail old lady who needs our constant care.

While this is true, we must not forget that the old dame still has some kick to her. We got some first-hand proof of the awesome power of nature this week.

er of nature this week.

This was not some epic event like a tornado or hurricane, just a simple summer thunderstorm.

This storm dumped 11 centimetres of rain onto our town in a couple of hours, flooding streets, basements and closing two major highways. People had to scramble out of their cars and seek higher ground. Major appliances in people's basements were moved to different rooms by the force of the water.

One sad thing was the impact of the massive volume of water on a local pond.

This pond was a beautiful place, home to many birds and fish. The flash flood washed out the debris dam at the foot of the pond and caused three-quarters of the water to drain out.

This pond contained huge snapping turtles thought to be about 80 years old. We hope they were able to resist being swept away but we fear they were not.

The scar caused by the water rushing out of the pond looks like something carved out by a major river or waterfall, not our usually stagnant pond.

What happened to the pond is a reminder not to take anything for granted. Nothing is forever.

The beauty of the pond was a gift of nature, a privilege for those who got to enjoy it. It emphasizes to us that we are just guests here on Earth. Beings who have existed for just a blip in terms of geological time.

We think we humans are all-powerful and indeed we do have the power to do terrible things to our planet. But all we have built, all our machines and buildings can be wiped out by a storm, a volcano, an earthquake, the power of nature.

The Earth will be here long after we humans have become extinct, either through our own doing or from natural causes. Protecting the environment is not for the Earth, it is for us, so that we can live happy, healthy lives during our sojourn here.

Investors look to small caps

Recovery signs leading to more adventurous buys: Expert

Canadian investors are pumping money into small cap companies that they normally shun in uncertain times, enticed into riskier assets by signs the economy is stabilizing and by bargain prices.

The widely followed BMO Small Cap Index has raced ahead of other closely watched Canadian indexes as optimism over a global economic recovery has coaxed investors back into stocks hit especially hard by last fall's market meltdown.

It's a sign that market players are willing to be more adventurous again, experts say, with many investors believing the recovery is imminent.

"It's a good time to buy small caps. The market has had a shellacking. Small caps had more of a shellacking. The valuations are very reasonable," said Allan Jacobs, lead portfolio manager of the $100 million ($93 million) Sprott Small Cap Equity Fund at Sprott Asset Management.

Small caps outperform

• Small cap refers to stocks with relatively lower market capitalization. While definitions vary, the range of market capitalization for companies in the BMO index is between $32 million and $1.3 billion. The average is around $370 million. REUTERS

"They got oversold big time," Jacobs said. "So when things improved and the world wasn't ending they bounced back more than other stocks because they've collapsed more than other stocks."

Jacobs manages his fund with a "growth at a reasonable price" philosophy, and the top holdings in his fund include Capstone Mining Corp. REUTERS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CERTIFICATION AND SETTLEMENT OF PROPOSED DIOCESE OF ANTIGONISH CLASS ACTION

TO: All persons who were sexually assaulted by any priest of the Catholic Episcopal Corporation of Antigonish since January 1, 1950, including the Estates of all such persons now deceased ("Class Members")

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CERTIFICATION AND SETTLEMENT

This Notice advises Class Members of a proposed certification and settlement of a class action lawsuit regarding alleged sexual abuse by priests in the Diocese of Antigonish (the "Diocese"). The action is referred to as Martin v. Lahey et al, Hfx. No. 297827 in the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia (the "Action").

WHO IS INCLUDED IN THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT?

All persons who were sexually assaulted by any priest of the Catholic Episcopal Corporation of Antigonish since January 1, 1950, including the Estates of all such persons now deceased.

WHAT ARE THE TERMS OF THE SETTLEMENT?

The proposed settlement creates a fund of up to $12 million ("Settlement Fund") from which eligible Class Members will receive compensation, a fund of $1 million ("Expense Fund") to pay the expenses of the settlement, and a fund to pay certain claimant's costs ("Costs Fund"). Class Members will have to file a claim in order to qualify for benefits. Class members may be required to be evaluated by a neutral medical expert. A claim will be considered by a judge or retired judge of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia at a private and confidential hearing, unless the Class Member and the Diocese are able to agree on settlement prior to the hearing. The claim can include amounts for pain and suffering, and wage loss up to certain limits. The Diocese will pay successful claimants certain amounts for costs of (1) necessary counseling, and (2) pursuing a successful claim. The amount each claimant will receive depends upon the details of the claim, and the number of claims made.

This Notice is just a summary. To review the full agreement, visit www.dioceseclassaction.com

HOW DOES THE SETTLEMENT OBTAIN APPROVAL?

The proposed settlement is subject to court approval. In order for the settlement to become effective, it must be approved by the court, which must be satisfied that the settlement is fair, reasonable, and in the best interests of Class Members. The date and location for the approval hearing is as follows:

- September 10 & 11, 2009, at 10:00 a.m. at the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, 1815 Upper Water Street, Halifax, Nova Scotia.

WHAT OPTIONS DO CLASS MEMBERS HAVE?

- SUPPORT THE SETTLEMENT – If you support the proposed settlement, you do not need to appear at the approval hearing. You may contact Class Counsel at the address below to advise him of your support.

- SUBMIT A CLAIM FOR COMPENSATION – If the settlement is approved, in order to be eligible to receive compensation, you must complete, sign, and return a Claim Form and provide other required information within specified time limits. Further details on how to make a claim will be set out in a further Notice that will be issued if the Action is certified and the proposed settlement approved. Reference may also be made to the foregoing website for status updates.

- OBJECT TO THE SETTLEMENT – If you wish to appear at the approval hearing or object to this proposed settlement, you are required to submit a written objection to Class Counsel by no later than August 28, 2009. Class Counsel will file copies of all objections with the court.

- OPT OUT – What if I do not wish to participate in the Settlement? If the court approves the settlement, your future rights to make a claim will be controlled and bound by the court's order, the release and other provisions of the settlement, unless you choose to exclude yourself from the settlement class ("Opting Out"). The process and deadline for Opting Out will be set out in a further notice that will be issued if the Action is certified and the proposed settlement is approved.

LEGAL FEES

At the approval hearing, Class Counsel will request that the court approve payment of up to $400,000 out of the Costs Fund for legal fees and disbursements of Class Counsel. Class Members will be responsible for any legal fees payable to a lawyer retained to assist the Class Member in pursuing a claim. Any fee arrangement will be reviewed by the Judge for reasonableness.

WHERE CAN CLASS MEMBERS GET MORE INFORMATION?

The Parts Canada Superbike championship is still up for grabs after the tour's lone stop in Nova Scotia.

Brett McCormick of Saskatoon led 21 of 22 laps around the 2.56-kilometre track at Atlantic Motorsport Park in Shubenacadie yesterday, gaining 10 points on series leader and three-time defending champ Jordan Szoke.

Szoke has 296 points and McCormick 282 heading into the tour's final stop on Sept. 6 in Shanville, Ont.

"The first couple of laps were pretty exciting," McCormick said in a news release.

"I got a great start but Jordan's was a little bit better. We used softer compound tires and I wanted to check out early in the race and manage the gap from there."

McCormick, 17, won in 26 minutes, 13.8 seconds with an average speed of 134.818 km/h.

Clint McBain of

Jordan Szoke of Brantford, Ont., leads Saskatoon's Brett McCormick early in the Parts Canada Superbike Championship race at the Atlantic Motorsport Park yesterday. It was McCormick who went on to win the race with Szoke finishing second.

Cochrane, Alta., finished third and hometown favourite Brian Blaauwendraat of Truro turned in a career-best performance by placing fourth overall. "Everything was great but I was getting a little tired," he said. "On this track, you're working the whole time. Clint was a little far off and I knew I

Strickland plans to return to Rainmen

MATTHEW WUEST
matthew.wuest@metronews.ca

John Strickland has a new team for the summer, but he'll be back with the Halifax Rainmen next season.

The six-foot-eight fan-favourite forward hit the hardwood at the Metro Centre yesterday afternoon as a member of 94INC, a touring street-ball team he signed with last month.

Strickland said he has unfinished business in Halifax after the Rainmen missed the playoffs in March.

"I was gonna retire, but me and (owner) Mr. (Andre) Livingston talked ... We thought we'd give it another year," Strickland said. "To be honest with you, I didn't like the note we went out on last year, so I'm going to try and bring a championship to Canada and Halifax and ride out into the sunset."

Livingston confirmed Strickland would return, but said Strickland hasn't officially been signed to a contract.

Strickland, who signed midway through last season and averaged 9.3 points and 5.4 rebounds, has lost 20 pounds in the summer and admitted he was out of shape last season.

"Sometimes my mind thought I could do things but my body said no," he said.

"Now, my body's with my mind."

Earlier in the week, Strickland served as a Rainmen scout at a Premier Basketball League combine in Chicago.

About 800 fans took in yesterday's game as 94INC beat a pickup team featuring Rainmen forward Eric Crookshank 108-91.

Crookshank had 28 points and St. Francis Xavier X-Men star Christian Upshaw added 18.

Livingston said he is keeping a close eye on two players on the pickup squad — former X-Men guard Tyler Richards and former Dalhousie Tigers guard Devon Norris.

La belle province may decide Impact's MLS fate

It's Called Football

metronews.ca/itscalledfootball

Despite what thousands of screaming 12-year-olds will tell you, Cristiano Ronaldo's presence in Toronto was not the biggest soccer news being made this weekend.

The weekend's big news came when MLS commissioner Don Garber spoke to the media on possible expansion to Montreal.

He backed away from earlier statements in which he made it seem as though Montreal joining MLS in 2011 was a certainty, but stayed committed enough to the city to keep the tongues wagging.

"The next step for us is to work with them on trying to get public support to expand and renovate that stadium," Garber said.

"Without that, we're not going to be able to go (into Montreal)."

Just a week ago, Garber said Montreal would likely be the 19th team to join MLS and, with a clever choice of words, appeared to declare Canada would have a third team in MLS by 2011.

At best it was a vague statement. At worst, well, at worst sometimes people hear what they want to hear. Or, rather, people hear what Garber wants them to hear.

During the expansion process Garber had the habit of showing up in bid cities when they needed him the most and making outlandish statements like, "Ottawa is a favourite in the MLS race" and "Atlanta is a terrific soccer city."

In both cases it put pressure on the municipalities to get their stadium affairs in order.

And it's no different now.

Montreal Impact owner Joey Saputo is waiting on the Quebec provincial government to commit $25 million to a stadium expansion.

In the meantime, Garber teases back and forth between praise and ultimatum, but his words are meant to do nothing more than put pressure on la belle province to come through with the money.

If it does, Montreal will be on its way to MLS, likely in 2012.

If it doesn't, then Montreal becomes the next Ottawa and MLS moves on to another city willing to put up the money.

"It got to be a little strenuous, because cocaine was very big, and (there were lots of) crazy people, so I decided to come back to Montréal," she explains. After a stint doing TV commercials, she landed a gig with the National Film Board of Canada for a movie on war

Lee, who worked on P.T. Barnum with Beau Bridges, was Christopher Lambert's personal make-up artist for Highlander 3 and travelled to Russia to do two films with Michael Caine.

Workology in brief

JOB LOSSES More than 45,000 Canadians lost their jobs in July, according to a Statistics Canada report — more than double what economists had predicted. Finance Minister Jim Flaherty says he expects more job losses in the coming months, but is optimistic about recovery in 2010. The majority of last month's job losses were in Quebec, with Saskatchewan, Newfoundland and Labrador following, while unemployment remained little changed in other provinces. Two sectors where gains were seen across the country were in the retail and wholesale trade.

INUIT CULTURE A new state-of-the-art cultural school is being built in Nunavut. The multi-million-dollar Inuit school, called Piqqusilirivik, will provide a place where Inuit from across the northern territory can gather to preserve their culture, tradition and language through traditional skills training taught by Elders. The school, which is expected to open in 2011 and admit 26 students who are 18 and older and have the support of their community, has received $24-million in funding from the federal government. Tuition and living expenses for students will be paid by the territory, which has a population of 31,400.

JOBLESS RATE The unemployment rate for Canadian students hit an all-time high of 21 per cent in July. This summer has been the worst on record for student job seekers. Two sectors — hospitality and construction — that usually hire students during the summer, were hit particularly hard by the recession. This means that many students will return to college or university this fall with an oversized debt.

OddJobs

Diane Peters

Metronews.ca/oddjobs

Some say astrology is a blend of math, science, craft and intuition. But even Brandi Jasmine will tell you the horoscope you read in the paper or online is more like a wild guess.

That's because a person's true daily reading is determined not just by their sign, but the date and precise time of their birth. "They're accurate for about one-twelfth of the population," she says.

Jasmine, 45, composes the daily horoscopes on Astrology.ca — which she also syndicates out to web sites and print publications — by looking at the pie-shaped astrology chart for each day and noting the different "aspects" for each sign that are active that day.

Since she's been writing horoscopes for over a decade and has hundreds, she randomly picks one for an appropriate aspect and runs it that day.

Jasmine is more precise when she does a personal reading. After getting someone's birth details, she calls on a computer program to make up the chart. She then reads from the chart, a process that takes about an hour.

Here, she uses a mix of mathematical knowledge of what the planet's positions mean. But she's also very empathic, she says, so senses things from the person as well.

Jasmine was born in very devout Pentecostal B.C. family that had little tolerance for such things. She was known as "sensitive" growing up.

Only when she moved to Vancouver in her early 20s did Jasmine finally get in touch with her psychic side.

But it was overwhelming. She called her mother, telling her she was having powerful visions and dreams. Her mother insisted she come home immediately and go to church. The sermon, ironically, was on visions and dreams.

"I guess this must be OK with God," Jasmine thought. She returned to Vancouver and began readying up on tarot, horoscopes and astrology. She began doing readings, attending psychic fairs and getting to know others who shared the same gifts and interests.

She penned the self-published book Living with Your Psychic Gifts and found she enjoyed spreading the word about astrology and psychic vision as much as she liked using her gifts.

In the late 1990s, she moved to Toronto and started working for an Internet company. She started Astrology.ca and found she preferred doing her work online: She finds face-to-

She rarely does personal readings these days — but she will have one done for herself every time she's at a personal crossroads.

Master of the mixtape

Director John Hughes was a modern day soundtrack guru

BRYAN BORZYKOWSKI
for Metro Canada

It's hard to find a soundtrack these days without a song from some up-and-coming indie band, but that wasn't the case twenty years ago. In the '80s movies often showcased big name pop acts, so when John Hughes — who died Thursday — included a song from a little known U.K. act in the opening scene of The Breakfast Club it made waves through the music and movie communities.

The song, Don't You Forget About Me, not only gave Simple Minds their first and only number one hit state-side, it transformed Hughes from a talented director to

"I don't look at the album as a marketing tool, because I think if you do that then you're going to fail. I'm not gonna say, 'Look, you guys are real hot so we'll stick you in the movie and we'll get it in all these stores and all these stations.' That isn't right." — John Hughes, 1950-2009 pop culture trend-setter.

"A lot of directors just threw in tunes because they sounded good, but Hughes chose songs that meant something to a scene or a character," says Michael Perlmutter, a Toronto-based music supervisor with Instant Entertainment. "He was one of the first modern day soundtrack gurus."

Plenty of other bands also found success after appearing in a Hughes movie — The Smiths in Pretty in Pink, Yellow in Ferris Bueller's Day Off to name two — but more importantly the director is, arguably, responsible for making new wave the soundtrack to the '80s.

"Hughes was breaking bands," says Corey Marr, a Toronto-based producer whose new film, Passenger Side, and its eclectic soundtrack, will make its Canadian debut at the Toronto International Film Festival in September. "He wasn't going into back catalogues (of popular acts) — a lot of that synth pop was new."

Besides discovering new music, Hughes' ability to marry scenes with sounds was revolutionary in itself.

"For Hughes, the music and the movie were one and the same," says Marr. "Listening to one of his soundtracks was a logical extension to his movies."

"He found the right tunes for the right scenes and somehow captured the entire pulp culture in three and a half minute songs," adds Perlmutter.

While Hughes' movies and musical choices still have an enormous impact in pop culture today, a lot of directors haven't paid as much attention to their soundtracks as he did.

Marr says that movie scores are still record label marketing tools, but there are a few directors like Cameron Crowe, Quentin Tarantino and Wes Anderson who use the "John Hughes method" of creating soundtracks.

And that method, Hughes told MTV news in 1986, means a song "can't just be written apart and shoved in. It's got to come out of the action. It's got to talk about the characters, not the story, it has to augment that action."

Kara 'shocked' that Paula left Idol

INTERNAL POLITICS Kara DioGuardi is still shocked that Paula Abdul has quit American Idol after eight seasons, usmagazine.com reports.

"I can't get over it. I'm completely shocked," she said on Ryan Seacrest's radio show Friday. "It's such a loss for the show, such a loss for the contestants. She's definitely the heart of the panel."

"The kind of heart she treated me with last year," said DioGuardi, who added that she was

"scared" joining the show last season. "She was so kind to me and made me feel immediately like part of the panel."

She added that she hopes Abdul "will reconsider" her decision to leave. DioGuardi shot down speculation that she was hired last season as an insurance policy against Abdul in case she leaves.

Abdul — who left show because she reportedly she didn't get her desired $20 million US deal — isn't sweating the fact that she is out of a job. "At this point, there are so many wonderful things that are being offered to me," Abdul told the media late last week.

QUALITY TIME TOGETHER Before jetting off to Vancouver to begin filming Eclipse, Robert Pattinson and Kristen Stewart got some downtime together and enjoyed a concert in Hollywood on Thursday night and then again on Friday, people.com reports.

The Twilight stars snuck into Bobby Long's concert at Hotel Cafe about three songs into his set with Pattinson's close pal Marcus Foster (who wrote a song on the Twilight soundtrack) on Thursday. The group watched the performance from a curtained-off area on the stage where there was sound equipment and a few bar stools.

"Robert was super low-key when he walked in," an onlooker told People, adding Stewart, 19, and Pattinson, 23, went unnoticed by fans the entire night. After Long finished his set, the group quickly exited the venue and jumped into a waiting cab.

The two headed out for a second night in a row Friday, this time catching Foster's show at Hotel Café. They later showed up together with a group of pals at the Chateau Marmont, and hung out well into the night.

Jessica predicted her breakup?

PRESCIENCE Jessica Simpson hinted at fissions in her relationship with football player Tony Romo in an interview conducted before the couple split, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The singer-actress was said to have been devastated after Romo dumped her on the eve of her 29th birthday last month, but she appeared to have sensed their time was over, hinting at a split in an interview with Glamour magazine.

She told the publication, "If this article comes out and we're not together, I'd still love him, and he'd still be a huge part of who I am today."

Simpson went on to heap praise on her ex, crediting him with helping her feel attractive despite media scrutiny focused on her body.

She added: "Tony never ever places judgment. You can just relax and feel beautiful. He's just that type of person."

Sharon has nothing to hide on mag cover

COUGAR Sharon Stone has posed topless at 51, and she's proud to flaunt it, the huffingtonpost.com reports.

The actress and humanitarian graces the cover of French weekly magazine Paris Match in a high-waisted bondage corset, black underwear, stilettos, arms over her head and topless.

There are also several shots inside the magazine.

Joan plays it safe at celebration

PARANOIA? Joan Rivers apparently has trouble trusting others. The comedy legend hosted a party at her swanky Upper East Side penthouse recently to celebrate her new TV show, How'd You Get So Rich?

Rivers reportedly hired three security guards to make sure no one made off with any of her valuables, according to Page Six.

Gerard loves a tough one

TOO MUCH INFORMATION Gerard Butler is attracted to powerful women, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The actor, who was recently romantically linked to Jennifer Aniston, will happily surrender himself and be dominated when the right lady comes along. He said: "It's amazing to be overpowered and overawed by somebody, and to feel that excitement come over you, and to take yourself out of your own head."

Butler admits he has only opened up his heart to a handful of women and prefers to keep his emotions locked up.

Metro Recipe of the Day

Eggplant Lasagna

INGREDIENTS:

2 tbsp (25 ml) olive oil
1 large onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tbsp (15 ml) Italian seasoning
2 cans (19 oz/540 ml each) diced tomatoes
1 can (28 oz/796 ml) tomato sauce
1 small eggplant (12 oz/375 g), peeled and cut into 1-in. (2.5-cm) pieces
1/4 tsp (5 ml) salt
1 container (16 oz/454 g) low-fat silken tofu, drained
2 large eggs
1 cup (250 ml) grated Parmesan cheese
9 no-boil lasagna noodles
2 cups (500 ml) shredded part-skim mozzarella cheese

METHOD:
1. Preheat oven to 400 F (200 C). Heat oil in large pot over medium-high heat. Add onion and cook until tender, 5 minutes. Add garlic and Italian seasoning and cook 1 minute. Add tomatoes and tomato sauce; bring to a simmer. Reduce heat to low and simmer until flavours are blended, 40 minutes.
2. Meanwhile, coat baking sheet with olive oil cooking spray. Add eggplant, coat with cooking spray and sprinkle with salt. Roast, turning occasionally, until browned, 30 minutes.

3. In food processor, combine tofu, eggs and Parmesan cheese; puree until smooth.
4. Coat 9 x 13-in. (3.5 l) baking dish with cooking spray. Spread 1 cup (250 ml) sauce on bottom of dish and arrange 3 lasagna noodles on top. Spread half of tofu filling over noodles, followed by half of eggplant. Top with 1-1/2 cups (375 ml) sauce and 1/2 cup (125 ml) mozzarella. Repeat with another layer, then top with remaining noodles, sauce and mozzarella.
5. Cover with foil and bake 1 hour. Remove foil and bake until heated through, about 15 minutes. Let cool slightly before serving.

MARCH 21-APRIL 20

Creatively and romantically you have much to offer and the next few days will be special. Make sure you know what you want, and where to get it.

LIBRA

SEPT 23-OCT 23

You are entitled to your opinions, so speak up and let the world know what you think and why. Just don't expect that everyone will agree with you.

TAURUS

APRIL 21-MAY 21

No matter what happens today or later this week you must stay calm and not let people get under your skin. Think of life as a game — really, that's all it is.

SCORPIO

OCT 24-NOV 22

You won't fully enjoy the good things until you take control of your destiny. Today's cosmic set-up will help you break free of things that are limiting you.

GEMINI

MAY 22-JUNE 21

You'll be happiest this week when visiting new places and meeting new people. You'll also be super friendly between now and Aug. 22.

SAGITTARIUS

NOV 23-DEC 21

In the next few days your view on the meaning of life will change profoundly. "Spiritual" issues, for lack of a better word, take on more importance.

CANCER

JUNE 22-JULY 22

The sun's transit of the money area of your chart encourages you to take on new ventures, but don't start them until you know how much they'll cost.

CAPRICORN

DEC 22-JAN 20

Now is the perfect time to clear out physical and emotional junk from your life. If you feel like scrapping everything and starting again, go ahead.

LEO

JULY 23-AUG 23

Even if you don't see results immediately you will be encouraged to try new things and take new risks, one of which will pay off in a big way.

AQUARIUS

JAN 21-FEB 18

It may seem as if others are having a great time while you're struggling, but it's not that bad. Get involved with things in your neighbourhood.

VIRGO

AUG 24-SEPT 22

You have nothing to fear and everything to look forward to but you can't shake the feeling that something awful is going to happen. Well, it's not.

PISCES

FEB 19-MARCH 20

A job worth doing is worth doing well and you're determined to prove you can be trusted to deliver on time and to the highest standards.
